

Highlight tasks completed. Do all tasks twice on the sheet.

1. Draw a head and shoulders picture of a character. Make a flap that lifts and draw or write how they really feel inside.

2. Write an imaginary interview with the author of the book you are reading.

20. Write a summary of the plot for a sequel to the book you are reading.

3. Draw a picture of yourself in the story you are reading.

19. Do a new contents page giving your own titles for each of the chapters.

4. Write a short biography or autobiography of one of the characters, from the clues in the book, making up any information you don't know.

18. Read part of your book to a friend, putting in as much expression as you can. Get them to write how well you did it in your reading log.

5. Write a diary entry that one of the characters might write after an important moment in the story.

17. Use the clues in the book to draw a picture of a character enjoying a lottery win of millions. What would they spend it on?

6. Which character in the story is most like you? Give three reasons.

16. Make a list of similes to show how a character is feeling. You could make these into a poem.

7. Can you explain in one sentence the theme of this book?

15. Take a moment in a fiction book and turn it into a newspaper story with an attention-grabbing headline, a short paragraph of a report and a stunning picture!

8. Draw a family tree or portrait of the characters in your book.

14. Write a different ending for the book.

9. How would the story be if someone else were telling it? Could you retell a bit from someone else's point of view?

13. Do a storyboard from the point of view of one of the characters. Put in thinks bubbles to show how they are feeling.

12. If you turned this book into a TV series with six episodes, what would you call each episode? Why?

10. Write a 50-word summary of the whole plot!

11. Take one paragraph and turn it into a play script.
